

Dam Building Project Given Official Boost

CARNEY, Dec. 23 — The project of enlarging the Little Wood river dam is receiving favorable support from state and national officials, and the dam is being built, a reality, Mrs. Mary Stanford, secretary for Little Wood River Irrigation district, reported Thursday.

The said members are being planned by the board of directors to discuss and analyze the letters of support and to determine further action to help spur the project along.

The project involves raising the existing Little Wood river dam 45 feet, thus increasing the storage capacity in the reservoir to 10,000 acre-feet. The proposed improvement does not provide sufficient regulation of the flows of the Little Wood river for a full irrigation supply.

The meetings are pending the return of Rep. Pete F. Ceanaroff, who is in California on military reserve duty.

Approval of the plan has been expressed by the state's interior department of labor, power, communications, department of army engineers, Sen. Henry Dworshak, Rep. Homer Budgett, Sen. Frankland, Rep. John B. Anderson, and federal agencies, Mrs. Stanford said.

The bureaus of the project, the analysis of the project, report the reclamation area which could be added to irrigation could be rapid by the irrigators in 40 years.

Boost Shown In Planting of Winter Wheat

BOISE, Dec. 20—An estimated 82,000 acres were seeded to winter wheat last year in Idaho, the USDA crop reporting service said.

This was three per cent more than 1954 fall planting, but nine per cent less than the average for the past 10 years.

The increased acreage was primarily the result of a better seedling stand than a year ago, particularly in eastern Idaho, the service said.

About same acreage

It pointed out that because the total wheat acreage in Idaho is about the same as in 1955, this means an offsetting decrease in spring wheat acreage next spring unless the state has heavy acreage losses in the fall.

The report said soil moisture was generally good for fall seedling this year, and conditions were favorable for rapid seedling growth.

Some eastern Idaho areas were short of rain at seed time but some north Idaho sections had much moisture.

Estimates Given

The service forecast an estimated 18,466,000 bushel production figure for 1955, based on the general condition of the crop and weather.

It noted weather conditions between that date and harvest time could materially affect the crop.

Idaho fall wheat acreage was estimated at 10,000, or one per cent less than 1954.

South Idaho acreage was estimated at 10,000, or five per cent more than the fall 1954 planting.

The vast bulk of the fall wheat acreage was released to spring wheat, and the acreage was understood to be the same as in 1954.

At the time of the fall planting, the service said, the fall wheat acreage involved material which could still be harmful to foreign relations or to publication of which foreign governments would be embarrassed.

Yesterday a state department press officer said that the new documents had "turned up as a result of a search for information" at the Roosevelt Library at Almo.

The service said some new papers had also come from sources in the state department and from other government agencies.

Ski Conditions Are 'Excellent'

Unless there is a radical change in the weather, skiers can look forward to some excellent skiing conditions this weekend.

Claus Jones, operator of the Alpine Inn, said the snow conditions are excellent. The ski runs are covered with approximately 40 inches of hard packed snow with some powder snow along the edges.

It is expected to be in excellent condition through Jan. 2. The road to the mountain is in good condition.

The skied portion of the run, 10 miles north of Fairlight, is covered with 35 inches of hard packed snow. Skiing is reported good and the road to the run is open and in good condition.

Sun Valley reports "good" skiing conditions on top of Baldy mountain where there are 70 inches of hard packed snow. Skiing lower down on Baldy is only fair, but conditions on Dollar mountain are good.

An army spokesman added that it was not known when or whether he will be released. Reports of his impending release through parole and from Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Informers sources in the West German capital of Bonn said the mixed martial forces in the U. S. had been examining the case of Peiper and other German war criminals would recommend Peiper's release early in 1956.

He was sentenced to death for the shooting of 160 American war prisoners near Malmedy, in Belgium, during the "battle of the bulge" in January, 1945. He was sentenced later to life imprisonment for his role in the Malmedy massacre.

The army spokesman said "you can be absolutely certain" the release will be announced publicly if Peiper is freed.

German Reds Do Not Press Barge Threat

BERLIN, Dec. 20—The East German Communists have backed down on their threat to half barges to Berlin instead of Friday night.

Chairman of the Central Committee of the German Democratic Republic, Otto

Ulbricht, told a news conference the Communists will continue to accept old permits used by barges to Berlin through the port of West Berlin through the bureau of the German Democratic Republic.

"The permit will not expire Dec. 31 as eastern propagandists have threatened," Ulbricht said.

"The permit will be valid as in the past."

He expressed belief the East German government does not want to provoke a conflict.

Communist announcements the large permits would expire on Dec. 31 led to widespread fears in West Berlin that the Reds were preparing to blockade the port.

The announcements were accompanied by a series of harassing actions similar to those which preceded the historic blockade of Berlin in 1948.

Boundary Tiff Rule Made by Highest Court

Dec. 20, 1955—The Idaho state board of education does not have the authority to make rules of school district trustee election, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled yesterday that the original state board of trustees of class A school districts, No. 241 of Valley county, is not a proper and valid body to be considered.

In a unanimous opinion written by Justice E. B. Smith, the court held that the state board of education does not have the power to make rules of school districts, class A, in Valley county, and an order issued by the state board on Feb. 7, 1954, was declared invalid.

The court ordered that the original state board of trustees of class A school districts, No. 241 of Valley county, be restored.

It was held that in abolishing county school districts, the 1953 legislation had not abolished their power to make rules of school districts, class A, and that power was given to the state board of education, not any agency of the state, which wrote the original state board's order and is not a proper and valid body of authority.

GOALS FOR 1956

As the New Year dawns, Americans know that a bright future of abundance and rising living standards is predicted for them. The 12 months just ahead should take them several strides up that path.

But as we dwell upon the prospect of having more and more of the material things we want, we should perhaps resolve not to overlook the responsibilities that go with this mounting abundance.

It's fine that we should be buying record numbers of cars, furniture sets, household appliances, television sets and the like. Yet no American needs to be told that such things are not ends in themselves.

They are designed to serve human beings. And human beings have many needs, only part of them met by owning a car, a TV set and a well-furnished house.

The children in our world require adequate schooling if they are to find a useful and satisfying place in it. People of all ages get sick and must be cared for to restore them to useful living. Elderly unfortunates fall by the wayside, unwanted and sometimes unprotected against disaster.

A human society can be no stronger, obviously, than are the individuals who make it up. If they are not assisted to attain their fullest, healthiest development, then no amount of cars or electric washers will supply the deficiency.

We have already learned to do many things for our older citizens. But the young and the sick still do not share as they should in the benefits our increasingly abundant life brings to us.

There aren't enough hospital beds in this country to accommodate the sick. And we don't spend enough money on research into some of our most menacing diseases, like heart ailments, cancer and mental illness.

It's a well-told tale now that we also do not spend nearly enough for schools and teachers. We need not deprive ourselves of very many of the good material things today in order to assure that our children will be equipped for an even richer and fuller life tomorrow.

Education, health and welfare cannot be dealt with as afterthoughts if we would mold a really fine existence for Americans. They lie at the very core of our society and must have priority in our considerations.

We will show ourselves wholly worthy of the new abundance that is flooding in upon us if we proceed to give these matters the precedence they deserve.

There is no better time to begin than now—at the outset of the year 1956.

CALLS FOR SHOWDOWN

The U.S. subversive activities control board should give urgent consideration to the Justice department's petition asking that the label "Communist-dominated" be affixed legally to the United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers union.

In 1949 the old CIO threw the UE out on the grounds its leadership was Communist and many of its activities favored the red cause. Since then there has not been any change in the union's leadership. Julius Emanek, UE secretary-treasurer, refused to tell a congressional committee whether or not he was a Communist.

The CIO in 1949 formed a new organization called the International Union of Electrical Workers, which bans Communists. It has replaced the UE as bargaining agent in countless factories. But the older union still represents a majority of workers in many important manufacturing plants.

Some of these do work absolutely vital to our defense. A big part of the arms race today is being run on the frontier of electronics. It is electronic controls which guide the "guided missiles" of many kinds. Present airplanes are flying electronic laboratories, so complicated are their mechanisms.

There is no place in this crucial field for full-fledged Communists, who are by definition agents of the Russian government. A union government infiltrated by reds should be disqualified from representing anybody in any plant, but most particularly in vital defense establishments.

The Justice department makes a detailed argument to support its case for labeling the UE Red-dominated. If the subversive board finds the argument well made, then under the law the UE's leadership would be stripped of all right to represent its membership in any bargaining procedures under the national labor relations act.

Given these circumstances, a mere 20 per cent of the UE's rank and file membership could get an NLRB order calling for election of new officers and representatives. By this method the union could purge itself of any Communists in command.

These steps would be important but they would not be enough. Any union whose members work in critical defense plants must be constantly on guard to assure that both the leadership and the rank and file are as free as possible from Communists. For those plants are a battleground in the endless fight to keep this nation secure.

A judge ordered an Ohio man not to speak to his wife for three months. The other part of his penalty is having to listen.

GOALS FOR 1956

As the New Year dawns, Americans know that a bright future of abundance and rising living standards is predicted for them. The 12 months just ahead should take them several strides up that path.

But as we dwell upon the prospect of having more and more of the material things we want, we should perhaps resolve not to overlook the responsibilities that go with this mounting abundance.

It's fine that we should be buying record numbers of cars, furniture sets, household appliances, television sets and the like. Yet no American needs to be told that such things are not ends in themselves.

They are designed to serve human beings. And human beings have many needs, only part of them met by owning a car, a TV set and a well-furnished house.

The children in our world require adequate schooling if they are to find a useful and satisfying place in it. People of all ages get sick and must be cared for to restore them to useful living. Elderly unfortunates fall by the wayside, unwanted and sometimes unprotected against disaster.

It's a well-told tale now that we also do not spend nearly enough for schools and teachers. We need not deprive ourselves of very many of the good material things today in order to assure that our children will be equipped for an even richer and fuller life tomorrow.

Education, health and welfare cannot be dealt with as afterthoughts if we would mold a really fine existence for Americans. They lie at the very core of our society and must have priority in our considerations.

We will show ourselves wholly worthy of the new abundance that is flooding in upon us if we proceed to give these matters the precedence they deserve.

There is no better time to begin than now—at the outset of the year 1956.

Business Had Big Year, Say GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UPI)—Businessmen stressed the prosperity theme yesterday as 1955 drew to a close. The head of Commerce, Fredrick, said "the business climate is one of general prosperity" and added:

"The chances are bright that 1956 will be another record year for our people, and I am confident that we can have another good year."

The commerce department chief also said the nation's industrialized gains for virtually all elements of the population except the farmers. He said farm income declined in 1955, but added, "recently we have been looking and production costs were little changed from 1954."

Year Saluted

Secretary of Labor Mitchell saluted 1955 as "the most satisfactory year for the American worker on record."

Both he and Weeks noted high employment in 1955—Mitchell said there was an average of 100,000 more men employed during the year—and both said an unprecedented volume of goods and services was produced.

The great forward surge of the nation's economic power was accompanied by stability in the cost of living with the result that Americans had more money to buy, the actual purchasing power within his pay envelope, increased.

Report Cited

In a separate labor department report, it was estimated the 4,200 men laid off in the steel strike of October in 1955. The lost time total was nearly 24 per cent above 1954, but still was the third best year since World War II ended in 1945.

Secretary Weeks' statement said that the economic outlook "is clearly encouraging" and that the year 1955 "was not only the possibility that in the last half of the coming year the boom might subside somewhat."

He said:

"For the last half, not enough firm facts are at hand now to anticipate the pace of business activity."

Given Summary

He said in his summary of 1955:

"The nation's total production of goods and services rose by 27 billion dollars to a total estimated at about 2,000 billion dollars. The increase for price changes it appeared that actual production increased about 6 per cent in 1955, and was about 10 per cent above the level in 1953, the previous record."

Rapid expansion in the production of the automobile industry and in construction was the general economic advance.

Personal income shot up by 15 billion dollars to a total estimated at about 1,000 billion dollars, a new record. Special taxes on income remaining after payment of taxes reached 26 billion dollars, 6 per cent more than in 1954.

Idaho Funds Shift Ruling Is Requested

BOISE, Dec. 30 (UPI)—Mrs. Ruth Moon, Idaho's state treasurer, yesterday filed a petition to find out if a legislative act transferring $20,000 from the state highway fund to the department of commerce and development is constitutional.

The legislative petition was filed by a private attorney for Mrs. Moon in third district court. It asks the court to determine whether or not the act, in which a decision of the state legislature, is unconstitutional.

Real and personal property listed in the petition does not exceed $100,000.

The act was passed by the 1955 legislature and set up the department of commerce and development primarily to publicize the state of Idaho.

The legislature appropriated $100,000 for a two-year period. Of this $50,000 came from the general fund and has been paid to the department of which A. E. Jonasson is secretary.

Mrs. Moon has balked $25,000, the other $25,000 which the legislature ordered be transferred from the state highway fund came from other motor fuel taxes or registrations.

Quoting section 17 of article seven of the Idaho constitution, the treasurer of the Far East said his application for a writ of mandamus "shall be transferred to funds or otherwise, be diverted to any other purpose whatsoever."

Mrs. Moon says she has declined to sue the state for fear she and her bonding company might be held liable should the act be ruled unconstitutional.

Truckers Warned On Turn Signals

BOISE, Dec. 30 (UPI)—The state department of law enforcement yesterday warned owners and operators of big trucks they have only until Jan. 1 to equip the vehicles with turn signals or face a $100 fine.

Bill Qualls, who arrived today on his first tour of air force facilities in the Far East since his appointment as chief of staff, said the new law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, will affect 1955 highway tolls expected to approach $30,000 and deaths 20 per cent above 1954.

A survey taken by the Associated Press just before 1955 counted 55,765 trucks killed on streets and roads.

The AP polled all states about their traffic deaths to date and their plans to combat traffic accidents over the 1954-55 period.

Delays reported, due to through traffic, were 10 per cent less than in 1954, the previous record.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A huge map of Idaho with symbols for many of the state's natural resources occupies a big space on one of the walls at the office of Sen. Henry C. Dworshak.

It was some time ago when Dworshak's attractive assistant, Louise Shadwick, Cesar's wife, decided it was time non-Idaho visitors to the state got a "really good look" at the Great Falls.

After that it was only a question of getting the paints together and finding a wall big enough for an Idaho map.

For months Miss Shadwick's office hours and week-ends were monopolized until at last a four-by-eight-foot map of Idaho was hung on the office wall.

"It would have been bigger," she says "apologetically," but the other wall didn't reach any higher.

The map, which is the work of the industries of Idaho Miss Shadwick inserted such symbols as an atom for Idaho Falls, Indian apparel for the Snake River country, and the central part of the state, and so on.

From time to time visitors from Idaho would suggest additions and up would go the ladder on behalf of visitor convenience.

What would happen to the huge mural when and if a general shuffling of offices took place?

Once every two years when seniority in the Senate, a number of members move to bigger and more desirable suites.

If Senator Dworshak decides to move, he says, "I think he won't be able to take his map off the wall and move it to his new office."

It is a problem will confront another member of the Senate, a different state who moves into the suite Dworshak now occupies.

"I guess the next occupant is just going to have to take it off," Idaho Miss Shadwick's frank opinion.

Dams Credited in Alleviating Flood

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (UPI)—A department of interior official yesterday gave credit to federal reclamation dams and reservoirs for cutting flood damage during the floods in the West.

The undersecretary of the department, Clarence A. Davis, cited the Shoshone and Millican dams in the Central Valley Project as examples.

He said they stored 1,421,000 acre-feet of water during the floods, released from Dec. 16 to 24. That would be enough to submerge 2,220 square miles under one foot of water.

Davis also said the Arrowrock dam reduced the flow of the Boise river in Idaho to virtually nothing at Boise. This permitted the Payette river to drain away into the Snake river, which has been dammed.

Even the Payette river flows were materially reduced by dams on that stream.
